Finding Positive, Wholesome Books for Children and Families

by Linda Harvey--Because there is so much harmful material that publishers and libraries offer children these days, I thought I would pass along the information I've gathered about how to evaluate books for your children and then, some positive, appropriate books for children.

I've also included a few titles for parents as they navigate the challenges of raising their offspring in today's America.

Let's start with several sites developed to report on books by applying sound, moral values instead of the rigged, left-leaning review system owned by the American Library Association and many libraries. Their reviews are less than helpful because they tend to tolerate or even applaud explicit or inappropriate content.

NEA Promotes Explicit, High Risk Behavior to Students

Numerous reports around the nation reveal a reckless new tool the National Education Association's "LGBTQ" Caucus introduced into schools recently: a name badge for teachers that sells a rainbow message of "pride" and "safety" on the front, with a QR code on the reverse that goes to XXX-rated explicit material. Freedom Foundation in Ohio has produced a brochure that shows elements of the badge and provides the QR code (for anyone brave enough to check it out)

Happy Thanksgiving. We are Thankful for YOU! Together, We Continue to Stand for Truth!

In spite of our challenges, each and every one of us can lift up our hands in prayer this week, and every week, for all the Lord Jesus has done for us. And living in America is unique and special, even as we face some drastic changes. We still experience a way of life that is unmatched, and Who do we thank?

Our gracious, merciful and generous God. Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow! Praise Him for salvation for those who believe.

Mission America wants to wish you and your family a very happy, peaceful and blessed Thanksgiving!
