It's Now the "Day of NO Silence" -- Will Schools Experience Unhinged Activism? Keep Kids Home!

Mission America Alert

(April 5, Columbus, OH) The solar eclipse will not be the only episode of national darkness this week. Recently, the Gay, Lesbian and Straight Education Network (GLSEN) announced that its annual "Day of Silence" for homosexual, bisexual and cross-gender identifying students, will now be re-positioned as the "Day of (No) Silence" and held on Friday, April 12.

The gloves are coming off and the dark truth is finally exposed for all to see. GLSEN, the child corruption group using public schools as its grooming locale, is looking for a fight. Mission America is urging parents to keep their children at home that day to avoid the inevitable confrontations this movement is seeking.

President Linda Harvey said, "Once again, GLSEN displays its real objective: using vulnerable children as tools and easy-to-manipulate change agents to further their agenda and 'prove' that conservatives, and especially Christians, are out to get them. The victim posturing has been a deception for many years. It's time to end the unconscionable 'LGBTQ' tyranny in many of our nation's schools."

Our School Corruption Calendar Includes the Biden Flub on Easter, choosing to Highlight "Trans Day of Visibility"

What were they thinking? Answer: they don't think, at least not when it comes to honoring people of faith, namely Christians.

The Biden administration messed up big time (not a new thing) when deliberately choosing to highlight the so-called "Transgender Day of Visibility" which is always on March 31, instead of minimizing that event (or ignoring it?) and making Easter highly visible in a true Christian spirit. Doesn't Joe claim to be a Christian??

Mission America has listed this so-called "Transgender Day of Visibility" on our "School Corruption Calendar" for several years. Check frequently for updates.
