Preventing Abuse or Sexualizing Children?

Second Step brings 'LGBTQ' content and more into classrooms

by Linda Harvey

Recently, parents in several northern Ohio school districts became outraged when they discovered how schools were fulfilling a new Ohio Instructional mandate. The new regulation, "Erin's Law," went into effect in 2023, named after a victim of sexual abuse, and it requires child sexual abuse prevention education for children in K through 6th grade classes.

One curriculum recommended by Ohio officials to satisfy this requirement is Second Step, which many will recognize as a prominent provider of SEL programs (social emotional learning).

If you look at the underlying child development approach, their "expertise" is way off base and may even lead children into being groomed for sexual abuse.
