

Can't We Promote Life, Not Death, to Our Children?

Linda Harvey

During Easter season, ponder this. Why is so much of our messaging to children preoccupied with fear and death in one fashion or another? Jesus is “the way, the truth and the life” (John 14:6).

The heartbreak of youth suicide and its recent rise in America has spawned a multitude of proposed solutions. But suicide is an extremely sensitive topic that must be approached very carefully with our children.

I have major concerns about how this subject has become another tool for anti-family special interests and vendors.

Recently an article in The Daily Caller reported that the Trump administration is taking a hard look at the national 988 hotline component where teens can be referred at their request to phone counselors who specialize in “lgbtq” issues....Ohio passed a law setting up state support for 988 as well. Ohio now requires all high school and college student ID's to feature the national 988 suicide hotline number with an Ohio logo.

Appearance vs. Reality on Good Friday

Linda Harvey

One of the many profound surprises of Christian faith is that, what can seem like impossible circumstances can turn out to be rich blessings. The most significant event in human history is one of those seeming catastrophes. It took place starting on Good Friday.

Friday's Good Because Sunday is Coming...

I love the song, Sunday is Coming, by Phil Wickham. He tells us that Good Friday is "good" because Sunday is coming.

We have hope even in dark times because God is sovereign in all circumstances. Hold on to that reality through everything, friends!

Easter is such a joyous occasion proclaiming hope for all believers because of the death and resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ. He paid the price for sin so we would not have to. All we need to do is believe and embrace the risen Christ as savior and Lord of our lives.

I hope you have a wonderful Easter! He is risen, He is risen indeed!
