

Queer Fiction: The Top 10
Deceptions of 'LGBTQ' History Month

As "Banned Books Week" wraps up, let's expose the truth. See article below.

Many believe the Lord Jesus Christ is returning soon. It's time to get right with God and believe in Him as your Savior.

One first step toward repentance is for us to stop lying to ourselves about all kinds of sin.

So let's think about the track record of homosexuality and gender confusion throughout human history. Is your first reaction to believe this conduct was normal and harmless all along? That those involved have been victims of perennial discrimination?

Yes, this is what we are all supposed to believe and there's no more capsulized time frame for presenting this flawed narrative than during October, designated as "LGBTQ History Month."

In 2025, "History Month" includes "Coming Out Day" and also the American Library Association's "Banned Books Week," because that group's primary goal these days is to defend obscene homosexual and transgender titles pushed by greedy publishers to school libraries.

The truth needs to be told about historical events/trends relating to homosexuality and gender confusion. We can only do small justice to overcoming the myths, but here goes....

Nationwide Call to Pray and Stand Against
'LGBTQ' History Month

Mission America Alert

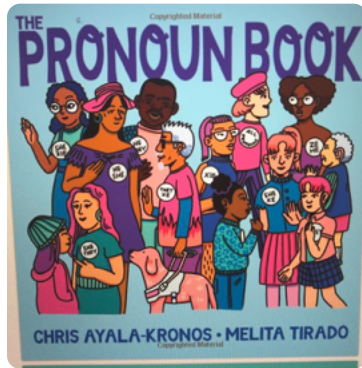

A nationwide call has gone out for prayer and action during the month of October, as many American public schools observe "LGBTQ History Month."

How can we remove "LGBTQ History Month" from our schools? Start with prayer and truth! Here's a very sobering prayer.

Mission America, an Ohio-based Christian organization, is leading a coalition asking parents, students and teachers as well as churches to commit to a month of prayer during October as reckless, deceptive events roll out in many schools featuring rainbow radicalism, obscene library selections, "drag" queens as special speakers/assemblies, in-class lessons, and more. CLICK BELOW for more information.

NOTE: Please send us PHOTOS of "LGBTQ History Month" in your school, to lpharvey@missionamerica.com. Let's keep schools accountable. (Sharing will keep sources anonymous)

"Banned Books Week" is a Fraud

You as a parent and taxpayer have a total right to express your wishes about the material in your child's classroom and library. So why does the American Library Association spend time and money to intimidate parents into silence?

Follow the money. They bow to publishers, who want to sell books, and the more sensational, the better! They don't care about childhood innocence, truth, faith or morality.

But you do. So don't be afraid to speak up in spite of "Banned Books Week" or any other intimidation tactic. No books are "banned" because they are all available elsewhere. But not every title is worthy to receive a spotlight in our schools.
